

2022 Chicago Fund for Safe and Peaceful Communities
Funding Announcement
February 14, 2022

Recognizing the potential for a spike in violence in Chicago during the summer months, the Partnership for Safe and Peaceful Communities, a coalition of funders committed to aligning their grant making to support proven and promising approaches to reducing gun violence, will once again administer the Chicago Fund for Safe and Peaceful Communities, a $1,500,000 fund to support activities by nonprofit organizations that build community cohesion and promote safety and peace. A rapid-response process has been established to receive and review short proposals, and quickly award grants ranging from $1,000 to $10,000.

To qualify, applicants are strongly encouraged, but not required, to propose activities that adhere to the Seven Field Principles (7FP) model, an evidence-based framework¹ that has been successful in fostering strong communities and reducing violence (outlined below). For more information see <http://whgbetc.com/carl-bell-youth-violence.pdf>. Collaboration among community organizations is also strongly encouraged as the 7FP model is more effective when implemented in a comprehensive and coordinated way.

The following community areas have been prioritized for support based on the number and rate of shootings and homicides: Austin, Auburn Gresham, Burnside, Chatham, Chicago Lawn, Englewood, Fuller Park, Gage Park, East Garfield Park, Greater Grand Crossing, Humboldt Park, Lower West Side (Pilsen), New City (Back of the Yards), North Lawndale, Riverdale, Roseland, South Chicago, South Lawndale (Little Village), South Shore, Washington Park, West Englewood, West Garfield Park, West Pullman, and Woodlawn.

The application for funding is available at <https://community-cct.force.com/grantcentral/s/> The application deadline is March 11, 2022. Grant awards will be announced on April 27, 2022. Checks will be distributed on May 20, 2022. All activities must be completed by October 31, 2022.

2022 Chicago Fund for Safe and Peaceful Communities

Statement of Purpose

Recognizing the potential for a spike in violence in Chicago during the summer months, the Partnership for Safe and Peaceful Communities, a coalition of 75 funders committed to aligning their grant making to support proven and promising approaches to reducing gun violence, will once again administer the Chicago Fund for Safe and Peaceful Communities (Chicago Fund).

The $1.5 million Chicago Fund offers rapid-response grant opportunities designed to support activities by nonprofit organizations that build community cohesion and promote safety and peace. It has been created in direct response to the many people and grassroots organizations that are taking on-the-ground action in their neighborhoods.

While the participating philanthropic organizations are already engaged in larger, long-term efforts to help address the problem of gun violence in Chicago, this fund is purposely intended to provide highly targeted, immediate support to smaller, neighborhood-based groups over the summer and early fall. The Chicago Fund is not meant to be a quick fix to the broad and complex problem of violence nor is it a substitute for the intensive and wide-ranging efforts already underway or planned to respond to the many root causes of the challenge.

Who is eligible?

The Fund will award grants ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 to nonprofit organizations with annual operating budgets no larger than $500,000 engaging in activities that build community cohesion and promote safety and peace. Applicants are strongly encouraged, but not required, to propose activities that adhere to one or more of the Seven Field Principles (7FP) model, an evidence-based framework with the following components, which has been successful in fostering strong communities and reducing violence:

1. Create a sense of community through programs and activities that are based on community members' ideas for how to reduce violence. These programs should build relationships and networks among residents, families, schools, nonprofits, churches, businesses, etc.
2. Share knowledge across generations by providing models, tools and techniques for learning. These programs, such as mentoring and leadership development, will give community members access to new skills and information.
3. Create a sense of connectedness by engaging large numbers of community members in group activities. These activities will allow for youth, adults, community organizations, faith-based organizations, schools, businesses, etc. to come together and collectively take part in positive, proactive community events such as back-to-school rallies, peace walks, neighborhood festivals, arts and sports activities and prosocial youth programs.

4. Provide opportunities to learn social and emotional skills through activities such as leadership development workshops, peace circles, and volunteering that promote self-control, empathy and positive communication.
5. Improve the self-esteem and self-efficacy (sense of power) of youth in the community by providing opportunities for leadership, employment and skill-building.
6. Build relationships between youth and adults through activities that create safe spaces for youth.
7. Minimize trauma by connecting community members with caregivers and support services such as wellbeing workshops and events with community service providers.

Collaboration among community organizations is strongly recommended as the 7FP model is more effective when implemented in a comprehensive and coordinated way. Activities that promote constructive relationships between police and community residents are encouraged but not required.

Organizations working in Austin, Auburn Gresham, Burnside, Chatham, Chicago Lawn, Englewood, Fuller Park, Gage Park, East Garfield Park, Greater Grand Crossing, Humboldt Park, Lower West Side (Pilsen), New City (Back of the Yards), North Lawndale, Riverdale, Roseland, South Chicago, South Lawndale (Little Village), South Shore, Washington Park, West Englewood, West Garfield Park, West Pullman, and Woodlawn are invited to apply.

The Chicago Fund will consider applications from groups, agencies, and organizations with a valid 501(c)3 designation or that have a 501(c)3 fiscal sponsor whose interests are consistent with the goals of the fund to support grassroots, community-based solutions that make Chicago neighborhoods safer. Grants may not be used to support or advocate for the purchase or use of guns as part of any response.

Eligible recipients must conduct programming and activities in the target communities. Criteria for funding will include the proposed activities and degree to which they follow the 7FP framework, the track record of the applicant, extent of collaboration with others and willingness to share information and plans.

Fiscal Sponsorship

The Chicago Fund for Safe and Peaceful Communities funds nonprofit organizations with evidence of tax-exempt status under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. It also accepts applications from organizations that have a nonprofit fiscal sponsor. It does not provide funding to projects or organizations outside the United States, or to individuals.

A fiscal sponsor is a nonprofit organization that provides fiduciary oversight, financial management, and other administrative services to help build the capacity of charitable projects that do not have their own 501c3 charitable status. Organizations that do not have 501c3 status may work with a fiscal sponsor to receive grants from the Trust and its affiliates. Organizations that use a fiscal sponsor to receive grants must ensure that their fiscal sponsor organization has an up-to-date Organization Profile in <https://community-cct.force.com/grantcentral/s/>, the CCT grants management system, at the time of application submission. Grant applications will not be accepted from organizations whose fiscal sponsor does not have an account in GrantCentral.

You can select a fiscal sponsor on your own, or you can consider one of these organizations, which have agreed to serve as fiscal sponsors for funded organizations.
